"Unity in Diversity - We are Christ"...(1 Cor 12,12-31a)

Saint Paul draws the picture of the young Church. He compares the Church to a body, to a living organism. There had already been different functions, different tasks – and all contributed to the unity of the Church by putting their different talents and charismata at the service of all. What each one possesses, what each one receives is a gift, a gift for the others, a gift for the community as a whole. • Jews and Greeks, slaves and free citizens, prophetic enthusiasts and silent practitioners, scholarly theologians and matter-of-fact believers – they all form one body by the spirit of Jesus who is present in all of them. I would like to call it “unity in reconciled diversity”. It is a plurality that aims at the crucial points of a community and thus cannot lead into chaos. This fear of chaos so often paralyzes the acceptance of diversity. • Maybe you remember the big headline in the German “Bild Zeitung” when Cardinal Ratzinger became Pope Benedict XVI. It said “We are pope”. When reading this line, we probably all understood what it meant. Would it be the same with the line “We are Christ”? And this is exactly what Paul says to the community in Corinth: “We are Christ” - and this has its consequences for the daily life of all.

The All Saints Coordinators, whose contact telephone numbers are shown overleaf, guide groups of volunteers in meeting our needs and those of our Celebrants. Please volunteer to help that group to which you feel you can most contribute. Contact the All Saints Coordinator responsible for the group.
